Summer Semester 2022

PHILOSOPHY

Course Philosophy of Economics	Theories of Ownership (seminar) 2 ECTS (+4 ECTS)	In this course we will look at fundamental conceptualizations of the normative idea of ownership. We will look at classical philosophical justifications of a right to private property as they can be found in Locke's or Mill's work, but also at their application to particular spheres of ownership, like real estate, finance, or patents.

POLITICAL SCIENCES

Course International Relations and European Integration	European Environmental Policy (seminar) 2 ECTS (+3 ECTS)	The seminar will address changing modes of environmental governance, means to integrate environmental thinking into other policies, EU's understanding of sustainability as well as EU's efforts to mitigate climate change.

ECONOMIC SCIENCES

Course Economics I	Introduction to Economics (lecture) 9 ECTS ! including another lecture and a tutorial !	Students learn how to analyze a range of economic situations by naming the economic agents, understanding their incentives, possible actions and limitations, and describing the institutions in which they act. The concepts of trade-offs, opportunity costs and the evaluation of economic outcomes based on criteria of efficiency and fairness are explained.
Course Economics II	Output, Employment and Prices (lecture)	After completing the module, students are able to reproduce the fundamentals of macroeconomic relations, analyze economic policy matters on the basis of well-founded theoretical arguments and apply macroeconomic models to specific economic policy matters.
	Output, Employment and Prices (tutorial) 6 ECTS (lecture + tutorial)	The knowledge gained from the lecture is actively applied in the form of exercises.
Course Leadership and Processes	The Economics of Crime (seminar) 2 ECTS (+3 ECTS)	- No description available -
